Died Suddenly.

At an early hour Friday morning, Mr. H. J. Smith, of Northport, L. I., died suddenly in his room at Hotel Fordham, of alcoholism. Mr. Smith was aged about 34 years, and leaves a wife, two brothers and one sister, who reside at Northport. He has been making Paris his headquarters since last March, being engaged in selling aluminum ware. He was quite an agreeable and congenial man, and had made many friends in this city.

His remains were embalmed by undertaker Davis and shipped to his home in Long Island.

HEINTZ'S Pure Pickling Vinegar is the best. C. P. Cook sells it.

Rifle Expert Appointed.

Victor K. Dodge, of Lexington, formerly of Bourbon, who is one of the foremost rifle shots of the State, has been appointed Captain of the Engineer Corps of the Second Regiment, Kentucky State Guard, by Col. Roger D. Williams. Mr. Dodge will in the future have charge of the rifle practice of the regiment, and special days will be set aside by Col. Williams for the members of the regiment to practice shooting.

MEIER'S Unfermented Grape Juice is highly recommended for the sick. Hill & Brannon have it.

Doing Very Well.

Ed. Bedford, of this city, who has been away with several of his trotters for two weeks, has won two races since leaving. With his mare Altonette, by Allerton out of a George Wilkes mare, he won races at Oakley and Chillicothe, O. They were five heat races and he won each by taking the last three heats. The best time was two heats, one in 2:13 and the other in 2:14.

Murder at Covington.

John Lieberth, a brother of Collector George W. Lieberth, was arrested at Covington, Friday, charged with the murder of John C. Lansdowne, who was stabbed to death near his home in Covington at 1 o'clock Friday morning. Lieberth is said to be a cigarette "fiend" and members of his family claim that he is insane. His examining trial will be held to-day.

Juvenile Cotillon.

—Professor Allan de C. Mueller gave a cotillon Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall, in honor of his dancing class, which closed on that evening. Prof. de C. Mueller's grace of manners and charm of personality soon won the hearts of all his pupils and under his direction their progress in dancing was something marvelous.

The ages of the children were from five years up and the ease with which the little ones went through the figures would have done justice to society men and women of a dozen years experience. The cotillon was led by Mr. Rogers Moore and Miss Margaret Ferguson and the honor could not have been more justly bestowed, for such grace and beauty is seldom seen and all through the dance they received hearty applause. The figures were all new and beautiful, some of which were very complicated but were artistically carried out.

The favors were pretty, and many were used in the figures. Among them were fives, drums, whistles, pipes, etc.; some of the others were fancy boxes filled with candy, Chinamen whistle, cane pencils and caps.

The couples as they danced were: Mr. Rogers Moore and Miss Margaret Ferguson; Mr. Charley Stephens Spears and Miss Frances Champ; Mr. Edgar Vansant and Miss Elizabeth Renick; Mr. John Keith Vansant and Miss Marie Talbott; Mr. Matt Bedford and Miss Nannette Wallingford; Mr. Edward Spears and Miss Marion Alexander; Mr. James Clay and Miss Bristow; Mr. Lucian Arnsperger and Miss Elizabeth Hinton; Mr. John Kriener and Miss Rena Crosdale; Mr. J. W. Waller and Miss Laura Clay; Mr. Charlton Clay and Miss Louise Davis; Mr. William Woodford and Miss Helena Weeks; Mr. John Davis and Miss Katherine Davis; Mr. William Ardery and Miss Edna Talbott; Mr. Bruce Adair and Miss Edna Turner; Mr. Henry Rogers and Miss Frances Clay; Mr. Hugh Ferguson and Miss Ella Kriener; Mr. Harry Collins and Miss Elizabeth Jameson; Mr. Joe Innes and Miss Caroline Roseberry; Mr. Harry Muir and Miss Margery Freeman; Mr. Harry Horton and Miss Belle Horton; Mr. Douglas Embry and Miss Clara Belle O'Neal; Miss Mary Hedges Clay and Miss Jennie Marie Pepper; Miss Ethel Talbott and Miss Dorothy Talbott.

Among the chaperones were: Mesdames T. E. Moore, John T. Ireland, J. M. Thomas, W. G. Talbott, Louis Rogers, J. Frank Clay, J. T. Vansant, Woodford Spears, John Stuart Roberts, George Alexander, Edith Bronston, W. C. Ussery, Robert Talbott, J. S. Wallingford, Sallie Bedford Hedges, Claude Thomas, E. T. Hinton, J. W. Davis and Swift Champ.

DEATHS.

—Captain Thomas A. Johnson, formerly of Carlisle, but for many years conductor on C. & O. between Garrison and Carter City, died at 11 o'clock Sunday night, aged 62. He will be buried at Carlisle to-day.

—Wm. Earl, aged 22 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Watson, who reside on Bethlehem pike, died Sunday. Burial yesterday at Old Union.

BIRTHS.

—Born to the wife of Earl Ferguson, Sunday night, a daughter, second born.

An Important Conference.

The approaching session of the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which meets at Lexington August 31st, will be one of the most important church assemblies ever held in Kentucky. In addition to the regular routine work of the Conference, action will be taken on the question of the proposed consolidation of the educational work of the Southern and Northern Methodist churches in Kentucky. Unusual interest attaches to the solution of the church problem.

Anniversary Edition.

The Carlisle Democrat came to us Saturday dressed in such fine clothes that we hardly recognized it. It contained half tones of a number of Carlisle's leading business men, the Court House, new High School building, New Presbyterian churches, several handsome residences, and last but by no means least, of Dr. N. H. McNew, editor and proprietor, with his handsome wife and two interesting children. It is all home print and on book paper. The Doctor is a Democrat of our liking, and long may the Carlisle Democrat live to extol the principles of true Democracy.

Breaks All Records.

The jury, after being out two hours at Mt. Olivet, Thursday, brought in a sentence of life imprisonment for Thos. D. Maybrier, who killed Jailer George W. Thompson, of Robertson county. For speedy justice this breaks all records. Within six hours after the crime was committed, Maybrier had been indicted, and thirty hours from the time the trial began, the prisoner was lodged in the penitentiary.

Col. Roger Williams, with thirteen members of Company C., arrived here Friday afternoon with the prisoner, and with a detail of three men under Lieutenant Whitman, he was conveyed over the Frankfort & Cincinnati R. R. to the penitentiary.

Maybrier was a mean looking customer, but one of the guards stated that the jailer was choking him when he shot him, was the reason they didn't hang him.

Amendment To The Constitution.

The last General Assembly of Kentucky passed a bill providing for the return to the viva voce mode of voting in this State, and many of the voters of the State are being misinformed by the papers as to when the vote by the people on this subject is to be taken. It will not be taken until the regular election in November 1905. That portion of our State Constitution providing for amendment to our fundamental law says: "Such proposed amendment or amendments shall be submitted to the voters of the State for their ratification or rejection at the next general election for the members of the House of Representatives." That means in this case next year.

The Home Circulating Library.

Mrs. W. A. Johnson has opened a Circulating Library, and offers the reading public the following inducements: The Book you want; When you want it; As Long As You Want It. Charges no membership fee. The only charges are 5 cents per day for them time book is withdrawn.

Time Worketh Changes.

An exchange tells of a young man who let his account at the drug store run two years before paying up. When he got a receipted bill he noticed that the first item charged was chocolate cream and the last item a nursing bottle, which leads one to remark: "Varily, time worketh many changes." From love to matrimony. How natural.

Send In An Answer.

If a man would offer you a job at one cent for the first day and double the amount every day for thirty days, would you take the job? If so, how much would you receive for the thirty day's work?

SERIES OF ACCIDENTS.

Four Picnickers Killed and Others Injured in a Grove.

Four Children Drowned by the Capsizing of a Boat—Yacht Run Down by a Steamer and Four or Five People Drowned.

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Four persons lost their lives and several others were injured, two of them probably fatally, in a tornado that swept through Chautauqua county on Thursday.

Parkhurst's grove, where the Stockton picnic was being held, was directly in the path of the storm. Five thousand people were on the grounds when a terrific wind storm swept through the place.

The storm came up suddenly. Trees in the grove were struck by lightning, many of them were blown down and the rain fell in torrents. The people who took refuge under the trees at the first sign of the storm were caught by the falling branches and injured.

Many horses were killed in the same manner. Some of the animals stampeded, trampling upon the injured people lying upon the ground.

Some of the buildings in the vicinity were blown down and others were unroofed. Hundreds of forest and fruit trees were torn up and corn and outfields were laid waste, entailing a loss of thousands of dollars.

At the assembly grounds at Chautauqua many trees were uprooted, and a portion of the fence around the grounds was demolished. The men's club here was badly damaged.

Cleburne, Tex., Aug. 26.—Four children were drowned Thursday evening by the capsizing of a boat in the Brazos river near Acton, Wood county.

The dead: John Franklin, 9; Kitty Franklin, 10; Joe Franklin, 8; B. F. Goodman, 12. There were six boys and girls all told in the boat at the time of the disaster. In going down stream one of the boat's oars struck a snag and the vessel immediately turned over. Two boys, names unknown, swam ashore. The bodies of the victims were recovered.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—The captain of the steamer Ogleybly hailed the captain of the barge Marcia in the Detroit river shortly before midnight, and reported that the Ogleybly had run down a sail yacht containing four or five people off the head of Belle Isle. The vicinity has been carefully searched by launch parties and no trace of the craft can be found.

CHINAMAN DETAINED.

He Represents His Country at the St. Louis World's Fair.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—One of the chief men of China's mercantile world, a commissioner by the emperor of China to represent his country at the St. Louis exposition, was taken from his berth in a sleeping car at Black Rock Thursday and detained for hours in the immigrant pen at that place. He was released and went at once to New York. The commissioner has been at St. Louis for months and recently decided on a flying trip to New York to inspect the docks there. He did not take his passports with him.

DYNAMITE CAPS EXPLODED.

An Attempt to Create a Panic and Rob Bookmakers.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—By the explosion of some dynamite caps, and in the panic that followed it, three persons were injured Thursday afternoon at the Hawthorne race track. It is supposed that the caps were thrown on the floor of the betting ring with the idea of creating a panic, during which the cash boxes of the bookmakers might be robbed. An attempt was made to rob one bookmaker, but it failed.

Cloudbursts and Washouts.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 26.—Cloudbursts and washouts in Tonahap and along the lines of the Tonahap and Carson and Colorado railroads, are the most disastrous in the history of these districts. People at Tonahap and Goldfields are on the verge of starvation. They are being temporarily relieved by the rushing in of supplies via Croon Springs, Silver Peak and Candelaria by wagon trains.

Call For a Populist Convention.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 26.—The national committee of the populist party has issued a call for the Ohio state convention at Columbus, August 31. This makes three state populist conventions on that day, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

May Address the Peace Congress.

Boston, Aug. 26.—It was announced Thursday night that Secretary of State John Hay will make an attempt to be present and make at least one address at the International Peace Congress, which opens in this city October 3.

Shot and Killed His Father.

Paris, Tex., Aug. 26.—Thomas Watson, 50, was shot and killed here on Thursday by his 15-year-old son Albert. The father was chastising the boy's sister and the lad took a double barreled shotgun and fired the fatal shot.

Dan Patch's Fast Mile.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 26.—By pacing a mile in 2:06 at the Iowa state fair grounds Thursday afternoon, Dan Patch broke the Iowa state record for pacers on a half mile track in Iowa. Four thousand people were present.

FOR MOVING THE CROPS.

The Shipment of Currency Has Begun Rather Vigorously.

Washington, Aug. 27.—"The shipment of currency for moving the crops has begun rather vigorously," said Treasurer Roberts Friday afternoon. "We have sent already this week to New Orleans against deposits in New York $521,000 and to Chicago against deposits in New York $1,500,000. In comparison with last year it will be seen that the New Orleans movement is much above the same and that the Chicago movement much more active. The total payments in Chicago last year from January to September 1, against deposits in New York, were $1,200,000. We have already sent in that period this year, including this week's movement, $1,800,000 and it is possible that more may go between now and the 31st of August. There has been a total to New Orleans since January 1 of $4,011,000. The amount last year for the period up to the close of August was $4,119,000."

THE TURBINE.

Board of Naval Engineers Experts Completed An Examination of It.

Washington, Aug. 27.—A board of naval engineering experts has just completed a thorough examination of the Turbina, one of the latest developments in the use of the steam turbine as applied to vessels. The results of the inspection will be made known in detail in a report on the whole subject of turbine power which the board will prepare, but meanwhile it may be stated that the performance of the turbine was regarded as highly satisfactory. There was a complete absence of vibration, a most important consideration in gun pointing and in the comfort of the crew. Furthermore, almost no repairs are necessary to the engines, there being no friction except in a few bearings. There is no pounding and thudding of engines, nothing but a soft rush of steam through the pipes, so that noise is suppressed, another valuable consideration in naval combats.

OCEAN METEOROLOGY.

The Control of It Transferred to the Weather Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 27.—By the transfer as recommended by the government wireless telegraph board of the control of ocean meteorology through wireless telegraphy from the hydrographic office of the navy to the weather bureau, announcement of which was made Friday, it is expected to secure a more thorough forecast relating to storms approaching from the seas.

In commenting on the transfer Prof. Willis Moore, chief of the weather bureau, said the result would be an uninterrupted wireless communication with all classes of vessels, whether merchant marine or battleships, within 500 miles of either the Pacific or the Atlantic coasts.

A CARNEGIE MEDAL.

Miss Gertrude Sawyer May Wear One For Her Bravery.

Marquette, Wis., Aug. 27.—Miss Gertrude Sawyer may wear a Carnegie medal for her bravery in plotting her party of children across Green bay in rowboat on Thursday during a heavy sea, when the waves were 20 and 30 feet high, and all steamers remained in port. It was her courage and nerve that saved the lives of the entire party, as she remained at the oars until her hands were raw, taking charge of the boat and keeping up the spirit of all by assuming a light heartedness she did not feel. Her friends will send a full account of her exploit to the trustee of the Carnegie fund and ask that she be granted the highest honor.

ALLEGED BANK ROBBERS.

Six of Them Were Captured By Officers at Lacrosse, Wis.

Lacrosse, Wis., Aug. 27.—Armed with Winchester, a party of city officers captured six supposed bank robbers Friday camped on the banks of the Wisconsin river. Upon them were found all sorts of burglar tools and a safe-blowing outfit. They gave their names as follows: Joseph Sheldon, James Smith, William Murphy, John Morgan, Fred Kingley, Frank King. The police believe the gang is the most desperate captured here for years.

Urges a Massacre of Christians.

London, Aug. 27.—A Tien-Tsin correspondent says placards have been discovered at Tsinanfu, province of Shantung, urging the massacre of "Foreign devils after the seventh moon" and that the native Christians are fleeing.

A Violent Earthquake.

Mexico City, Aug. 27.—A violent earthquake is reported from San Martin in the state of Oaxaca. The shock was accompanied by deafening subterranean rumblings. There was great alarm for a time, but no serious damage was done.

At Johannesburg.

Johannesburg, Aug. 27.—Rr. Adm. Chadwick and other officers of the United States South Atlantic squadron arrived here Friday as the guests of Lord Milner, British high commissioner for South Africa. A banquet was given the officers.

Disarming Russian Warships.

Shanghai, Aug. 27.—The work of disarming the Russian warships Asold and Grozovoi will begin on Monday. The Japanese declare that there will not be a repetition of the Ryehshien incident at Che Foo.

IN THE SECOND ROUND.

Jack Munroe Went Down and Out Before Champion Jeffries.

The Fight Showed That the World Has Yet to Produce a Man Who Will Displace Jeffries as the Champion.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—Like the veriest amateur in the prize ring, Jack Munroe, of Butte, Mont., went down and out before Champion James J. Jeffries Friday night in the second round. The man from the mining district made such an extremely sorry showing that the great throng in Mechanics Pavilion roundly booed him as he protested to Referee Graney against the decision that had been given in favor of Jeffries.

The two giants had not been in the ring two minutes when it was foreseen that the aspirations of Munroe would be quickly disposed of. The miner was scared and awkward and Jeffries in the first round had him twice on the canvass taking the count.

Jeffries directed his bombardment against the stomach of his opponent and each shot was followed by a blow on the jaw that sent Munroe to his knees. Jeffries went back to his corner after the opening round with a sneer and a laugh on his swarthy face while Munroe's seconds busied themselves with smelling salts and restoratives. When the two came together for the second round the laugh on the champion's visage changed to a look of determination that boded ill to the miner.

Forty-five seconds after the gong sounded Munroe was lying on the floor, a bloody, bruised mass of humanity, with Jeffries standing over him, ready if necessary to put the quietus on the championship ambitions of his adversary. The miner was too dazed to rise to his feet and the time-keepers counted him out, but the husky man from Southern California did not understand that the victory was already his, nor did Munroe realize that his pugilistic star had so early set, and the two men, in a moment or two, facing one another and Jeffries landed a terrific blow on the jaw of his staggering opponent. It was this time that Graney came forward and ordered Jeffries away, telling him that the fight was ended in his favor.

Munroe tottered to his corner with blood streaming from his face and fell into his chair dazed and helpless. His seconds immediately began working on him to freshen him and when he came to a realization that the fight had gone against him he arose and, going over to Referee Graney, began to protest. The huge crowd understood that from his protesting gestures, etc., the purport of his talk to Graney, and a mighty volume of jeering and hissing evidenced the sentiment of the spectators, many of whom had placed money on the miner that he would stay at least double the number of rounds before the champion. From the time the bell rang for the commencement of the battle to the time that the count of ten had been uttered against Munroe, only four minutes and 45 seconds had elapsed. The fight demonstrated, if nothing else, that the world has yet to produce a pugilist who will displace James J. Jeffries as champion of the world.

A great throng witnessed the contest. Estimates of the number in attendance range from 7,000 to 8,000, and it is believed that the gate receipts will approximate $35,000.

The miner's showing was a disappointment to those who had the confidence that he would at least repeat in some degree his performance in Butte, when Jeffries failed to put him out in four rounds. In the first few moments of the opening round he made some show of aggressiveness, but that he was thoroughly scared was evident from the manner in which he broke ground and awkwardly endeavored to guard himself when Jeffries advanced toward him.

Jeffries did not extend himself at any time of the short contest, nor did he deliver a blow that required the full strength of his powerful arm. The shots that sent the miner down were of the short arm variety that found easy lodgment on the jaw of the man from Butte, but there must have been terrific impact behind them which was shown by the way the 200 pounds of flesh went down with a thud on the canvass.

The Week's Business Failures.

New York, Aug. 27.—Business failures for the week ending August 25 in the United States number 185, as against 203 last week, 142 in the like week in 1903, 140 in 1902. In Canada failures for the week number 26, as against 15 last week.

Decision Given on a Foul.

Ogden, Utah, Aug. 27.—The decision was given on a foul to Rufe Turner, of Stockton, Cal., over Barney Mullins, of Boston, in the 14th round of what was to have been a twenty round contest.

A proposition to organize the school-teachers of the country, along trade union lines, created considerable discussion at the recent meeting of the National Educational association.

THE BIBLE WAS MUCH USED

There Was No Baby Chair in the House and It Served a Good Purpose.

A minister of one of the leading congregations of this city was recently making a call on one of the prominent members of his flock and was greeted at the door by the five-year-old daughter of the house, who was doing the honors as hostess in the absence of her mother, relates the Philadelphia Press. Spying a well-worn family Bible near at hand, the minister commented on the fact that there must be a good father in the house, which contained proof of having used the Bible to so great an extent.

"Oh, yes," said the child, "papa has us on the Bible three times a day." "How edifying," replied the parson. "How edifying. And, pray, what times does your good father call upon this grand volume?" "Always at meal times," answered the radiant daughter. "You know, we never had a baby chair in the house, so papa just sits the Bible on a dining-room chair and that makes it just high enough for us children. My baby brother Jim sat on it this morning. We all had our turn at it."

Too Much Sense.

An old colored man, watching the monkeys at the zoo the other day, was heard to drop this corollary to the Darwinian theory: "Dem children got too much sense to come cuter dat cage. White folks cut der tails off and set 'em to workin' and votin' and followin' constitutions."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Andrew Carnegie told this story lately: A Scotchman and an Englishman went to see "Douglas," and after Norval's great speech the Scotchman asked his companion: "Was do ye think of our Willie Shakespeare no?"

"Well," was the answer, "you have claimed Chaucer, Milton, Spencer, Wordsworth, Byron and most of the others; I suppose you'll be claiming Shakespeare as Scotch."

Filipinos at St. Louis World's Fair

Wonderful Music Rendered Daily by Islanders on Plaza of Philippine Building.

HERE are some people who still assert that the United States obtained nothing, through the annexation of the Philippines, but a lot of naked savages. In spite of the government's display at the World's Fair, which shows, in addition to the four wild tribes, the refined Visayans with their beautiful fabrics and their delicate embroideries, the loyal brown soldiers of Uncle Sam and the cultured commissioners and officials, there are some purblind individuals who refuse to see that the Filipino is anything but a nuisance and a menace to our country.

That he could be capable of civilization and uplifting seems utterly ridiculous to those who have studied him. No, to the class who dare not visit the Philippine reservation at the World's Fair for fear of being convinced against their will. That a great many of the natives of the islands could already be cultured and refined would be set down as utterly preposterous by this class.

The soreheads need not be bound and carried by violence across the facsimile Bridge of Spain, through the Walled City to the heart of the most wonderful section of the entire exposition. They should only be enticed to listen for an hour to the playing of the Constabulary band. No man with an ounce of appreciation in his soul could hear that band without being convinced that the 81 men who compose its membership are far above the ordinary in both intelligence and sentiment. A nation or a race may be judged by its music. A natural feeling for rhythm and harmony is not an attribute of a chaotic or unbalanced mind. It is discord that leads the way to senseless vandalism and causeless rebellion.

In behalf of the Filipino it must be said that he is a natural musician. Even the savage head-hunters, in their peculiar tribal dances, manifest a remarkable feeling for rhythm. There is none of the Indian's wild noise and broken time in their beating of brass tom-toms and their somewhat monotonous singing. They possess the musical instinct that, with time and training, may be developed into just what the members of the two Philippine bands already possess.

The Scout band is an exceptionally good military band, such as we have heard before. The Constabulary band is in a class by itself. It is not to be compared with any of the other exposition bands. Its concerts are held daily in the large bandstand in the Philippine plaza, and those who have heard one concert will gladly forsake the most interesting exhibit and walk the entire distance from the heart of the grounds to the reservation in order to hear another.

The men who compose the constabulary and who have done so much to promote law and order in the islands are to be distinguished from the natives in the regular army by their uniforms. The military Filipino wears the blue of the American soldier. The members of the civil police force wear the khaki. It is these little men in yellow attire who have come to the World's Fair to show Americans what we, as a nation, have really acquired as an accidental result of Admiral Dewey's spectacular victory.

The members of the Constabulary band were all finished musicians before Lieut. Loving, their leader, took them in hand. Each one was an artist in his own line, and all of them had seen service in the military bands of the Spanish regime. However, there was a tremendous task for the bandmaster. The men possessed execution without idea. They could read notes faultlessly, and could keep perfect time; but that is only a small part of concerted playing.

Naturally quick to catch new ideas, they soon grasped the meaning of the "attack," on which the effect of a band's work so largely depends. Then they learned all the mysteries of shading, from the most delicate tone to the most powerful crescendo, and it is in this that their playing is so marvelous. In the tender, sympathetic passages of a selection the tone is subdued to the most exquisite murmur, from which it rises, without a crash and without a blare, sweeping majestically upward and onward, until the enraptured listener is engulfed in a mighty billow of sound. Nothing could be more inspiring than the burst of melody in such a climax as that which occurs in the sextette of Lucia, and no band ever handled its climaxes better.

In the most powerful tone, there is not the slightest suggestion of brassiness. It is all liquid music. This is due almost wholly to the instrumentation, which is absolutely faultless. More than half the instruments are reeds, and instead of the large number of saxophones, the instrumentation includes four sarrusaphones and two sousaphones. Moreover, the clarinets are not used merely for accompaniment, but actually carry the second voice.

The music produced is not simply that of a brass band, but is varied for effect to resemble strings, human voices and even the pipe organ. Among the players there are several excellent violinists, and the personnel of the band is sometimes rearranged into an orchestra of 40 men and also into a guitar glee club.

The leader, Lieut. Loving, is a native of St. Paul, and a graduate of the New England conservatory of music. To his genius and devotion much of the success of the Constabulary band is due.

Would that every American citizen might listen to one of his matchless programmes, drink in all the harmony and all the splendor of the best band in the United States, yes, and stay to the close. The close is the most impressive part of the concert. No one could listen to the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by that band of Filipinos, the pavilion surrounded by other Filipinos, their hats over their hearts and their heads bowed, and doubt that they are loyally American.

BANANA A PROMINENT FOOD

Long Regarded as a Luxury by Natives of Tropics—Bread and Coffee Facts.

Long regarded only as luxury for children or proper food for the dark-skinned natives of the tropics, the banana has advanced to a place of prominence as a great food product. The United States and other great nations having colonies in the tropics have been investigating the food value of the banana and the results obtained are so satisfactory that the nutritious banana is taking its place as a staple food among all civilized nations.

To overcome all objections, the banana has been especially dried and prepared for food by making it into a fine flour out of which bread is made, and other process turns the soft mushy banana into a wholesome coffee.

The St. Louis Exposition is being used by the manufacturers of banana bread and banana coffee to introduce this new food to the world. Now this nutritious bread and coffee are served daily to visitors in the Palace of Agriculture, as one of the many object lessons in food at the World's Fair.

Many Varieties of Potatoes.

Three hundred and fifty varieties of Irish potatoes, big and little, are exhibited in the New York section of the Palace of Agriculture at the World's Fair. The specimens are the result of cross breeding of standard types.

Features in Food and Drink.

The World's Fair is full of new things, new features and interesting experiments in the way of food and drink. Prominent among the new beverages introduced at the Exposition are banana coffee and prune coffee. At one of the California county exhibits in the Palace of Agriculture the prune coffee is furnished by the county, to teach the public the value of this experiment as a pleasant beverage. The banana coffee is served in the same building, but at a different exhibit, the purpose being to show the wonderful food value of the banana.

COFFEE DISPLAY EXTENSIVE

South and Central America Exploit Their Great Product—Porto Rico Represented.

The value of the St. Louis Exposition as an advertising institution and school of instruction is fully appreciated by the great coffee growing countries of South and Central America. These countries are showing their coffees to the thousands of World's Fair visitors and creating new demands for the better varieties produced, which now find a market at home or in England and Germany.

The countries claim as great merit for their high grade coffees as is possessed by the famous Mocha and Java, and they seek to give the public an object lesson in the use of coffee. Brazil serves coffee every afternoon to all visitors at the Brazil building, free of charge, in order that they may sample a better grade of Rio.

Porto Rico also has an extensive coffee exhibit, with the hope of promoting a larger trade with its new mother country.

Pygmies Discard Tents for Huts

The Pygmies from Africa at the World's Fair became tired of living in the tent provided for them and have built themselves small huts of saplings, covered with grass and rushes. In order to give the huts the proper dimensions, a novel system of measurement was employed. The corner poles were stuck in the ground and the architect then lay down on his stomach, stretching out both arms to see if the hut would be large enough.

Organ Recitals Daily.

Five regular recitals are now given each day upon the large mechanical organ in the splendid French section of the Palace of Liberal Arts at the World's Fair. The recitals begin at 10:30 and 11:30 o'clock a. m. and at 2:30, 3:30 and five p. m., and consist of selections from well-known operas and other classical and popular music. The space about the organ is always filled with people. In addition to being a very perfect instrument from a musical standpoint, it is elaborately decorated.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE.

Kuropatkin Compelled to Draw in His Advanced Position.

General Disappointment Is Expressed By the Newspaper Correspondents at the Withdrawal of the Russian Troops.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 23.—All the news from Liao Yang, official or otherwise, shows that Gen. Kuropatkin is gradually drawing in his advanced positions to the inner ring of his defenses.

After three days of heavy fighting, the latter part of which was impeded by rain, the Russians were compelled to disengage six guns, which it was impossible to take from the high positions, over the muddy roads, but during the fighting on the southern front they captured some Japanese guns. It is reported also that they destroyed some Japanese mountain batteries.

Gen. Kuropatkin has not yet disclosed whether he intends to make a decisive fight at Liao Yang.

General disappointment is expressed by the newspaper correspondents at the withdrawal now in progress. The statement that the reserves were not called upon to hold some of the positions which were abandoned seems to show that there is a strong force at Liao Yang which is not yet being utilized.

A Russian correspondent, in describing the two days' fight of August 25 and 26, says:

"The fight developed not only the immense strength of the Japanese artillery, but involved several hand-to-hand fights and bayonet charges."

The first movement was made by Gen. Nodzu from Erdah on the morning of August 25 with about a division and a half. The Japanese concentrated the fire of nearly six guns on the Liao Dian Shan position. Among these guns were mountain batteries and heavier cannon, the latter including four Howitzers. The Cossacks checked the first attempt of the Japanese infantry to advance in the direction of Tounsinpu. Gen. Kuroki then joined in the attack and led a general assault, pressing heavily on the center of the left flank, while at the same time attempting to turn the extreme left. The advance began at 10 p. m. on August 25 the Japanese following their usual custom of trying to force in the night a position which had proved impregnable during the day. The rifle fire gradually increased until midnight, when the principal attack was made on our left. The Japanese came up in solid masses, throwing themselves against our position with wild shouts of "Banai!" Every attack was rolled back with tremendous loss. At one place the Japanese line broke and fled in panic, leaving the dead in heaps. We followed with bayonet up to the next line of intrenchments and then there was a lull until 4 o'clock in the morning, when reinforcements joined the attackers. The Japanese again advanced slowly and stubbornly, covered by a hail of artillery fire. We remained in our positions until 1 p. m., and then retired without even bringing up the reserves. We fell back from Anpian Bass, Mayolin, Sisolidzy, Tsegow and Chlipuit to the next position, as had been arranged beforehand. Our losses were about 1,500. The Japanese losses are not known, but they were heavy."

London, Aug. 23.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Kobe, in a dispatch dated Saturday last, says: "Following is the position of Port Arthur: "The Japanese have captured all the outlying fortifications but the Russians still hold the citadel on Antsehan, Golden hill forts and the forts on Tiger's Tail and Liaoiti mountain. The Japanese are in possession of the parade grounds and barracks under the Antsehan fort on the outskirts. "The fall of Port Arthur is believed to be imminent. It is believed that the garrison will make a desperate sortie before the end comes."

Will Wed a Marquis.

Paris, Aug. 23.—The reported engagement of Martina Potter Jones, daughter of J. D. Jones, the wealthy Washington man, to Marquis de Jaeta, is arousing great interest in Florence. The marquis is a member of the oldest noble house in Sicily.

Priest Barricaded in His House.

Pittsburg, Aug. 23.—The priest of St. Nicholas Croatian church, Allegheny, is barricaded in his house under the belief that an attempt to kidnap him will be made. The situation is the culmination of several months of trouble in the church.

Nine Bodies Recovered.

Antwerp, Aug. 23.—The fire in the oil tanks near here continued Sunday, but it is now practically ended. Nine bodies have been recovered and several are still missing. The loss is estimated at 10,000,000 gallons and the damage nearly $2,500,000.

Falling Off in Shipment of Tea.

New York, Aug. 23.—The importers here say importations from America this year will probably be 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 pounds less than the preceding 12 months. The experts say this falling off is only indirectly due to the war between Japan and Russia.

Destitute of Smokeless Powder.

London, Aug. 23.—The Tokio correspondent of the Standard says: "Unofficial reports state that since the explosion of their magazines at the foot of Liaoiti hill, the Russians appear to be destitute of smokeless powder."

THREE TRAGEDIES.

A Double Murder and Two Suicides at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Amanda Harter, aged 33, and James Leonard Druein, aged 29, were found dead in their flat in The Normandie, on Race street, Sunday, under circumstances that indicate murder and suicide. With them lived Fannie Harter, aged 14, the niece and foster daughter of the woman. Mrs. Harter came here originally from Macon, Ga. Her husband was in business here, but left her, charging her with infidelity. The girl is held as a witness but claims to know nothing about the double crime. It is reported that she and her foster mother were jealous of each other on account of Druein, who came originally from Lebanon, Ky., and while employed at the post office here rented a room of Mrs. Harter. While the police will not state that the girl is held on suspicion, there is a report that she may be involved. The theory most credited is that Mrs. Harter, in a jealous fit, gave the girl a beating, that Druein interfered, strangled Mrs. Harter to death, and afterward cut her head into pieces with a hatchet. After he had cut Mrs. Harter's body in a horrible manner, it is claimed that he wanted the girl to escape with him. When she refused to go he killed himself by shooting.

One theory is that he thought he would be caught if he remained with the girl, and that he did not want to leave her. Letters were found showing that he had been intimate with Mrs. Harter, and afterward became infatuated with the young girl. The girl openly mourns his loss, but has nothing to say of her foster mother.

The girl would make no statement until Sunday night, when she said she was sleeping Saturday night with her foster mother when Druein carried her to his room, locked her in and killed Mrs. Harter. Then he unlocked his room and asked her to go with him. When she refused he begged her to commit suicide with him, and threatened her life, but finally bid her goodbye and shot himself.

The body of Conrad Ringle was found in Finley Methodist church Sunday when the janitor was opening the place for the morning Sunday-school. It developed that he remained after the Wednesday night prayer meeting and took carbolic acid with suicidal intent. The empty bottle was found by his side.

Margaret Claybourn Story, who claimed to have been an actress, died at the city hospital Sunday from poison self-administered. She also claimed relatives of prominence at Louisville and Lexington, Ky.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Amanda Harter is the wife of F. H. Harter, of Macon, a well known decorator, who has lived in Macon three years. He intended to join his family this fall. When seen Sunday he was unable to account for the affair, saying his domestic relations had always been pleasant. Mrs. Harter and daughter had never visited here.

BATTLESHIP LOUISIANA.

Most Powerful Vessel in the American Navy Launched at Newport News.

Newport News, Aug. 23.—Miss Juanita La Londe, a member of a most distinguished Creole family of New Orleans, crashed a bottle of native wine on the prow of the Louisiana Saturday, and amid a storm of cheering, shrieking whistles and the music of a band, the great battleship, the most powerful fighting vessel in the American navy, glided easily from the dry dock of the Newport News Shipbuilding Dry Dock Co.

A special train bore Gov. W. W. Heard, Lieut. Gov. Sanders, Miss La Londe and a party of prominent Louisianians to Newport News. Gov. A. J. Montague and his staff, Rr. Adm. Harrington, a delegation of naval officers from Washington and a party of officers from Ft. Monroe met the guests.

SEATTLE-SITKA CABLE.

The Final Splicing Was Made Ten Miles Out of Seattle Sunday.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 23.—The final splicing of the Seattle-Sitka government cable was made Sunday in the harbor ten miles out of Seattle. The cable touches at Sitka, Juneau and Skagway. From the latter point a telegraph line leads over White Pass and at Tagish joins the Canadian government line returning to the boundary. From the boundary the government has a line to St. Michaels and the government wireless connects St. Michaels and Nome.

David B. Hill to Retire From Politics. Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23.—David B. Hill Sunday announced that he intends to retire from politics January 1, next, and that no matter what the result of the coming campaign may be, he will relinquish the leadership of the democratic party in New York.

Quebec, Aug. 9.—The archbishop of Canterbury, accompanied by his wife, Rev. Mr. Holden, domestic chaplain; Rev. Mr. Allison, vicar of Windsor, and J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York, arrived here early Sunday.

THE SPEED CONTEST.

Barney Oldfield Lost Control of His Automobile.

Two Men Were Killed and Oldfield Painfully Hurt—The Machine Went Through a Fence and Was Completely Demolished.

St. Louis, Aug. 23.—Blinded by the dust thrown by the swiftly moving machine of A. C. Webb, of Toledo, O., Barney Oldfield, of Cleveland, O., lost control of his machine in a false start of the fifth event of the World's fair automobile speed contests Sunday and crashing through the outer fence of the course, instantly killed John Scott, a watchman employed at the park, and inflicted injuries upon Nathan Montgomery, a Negro, from which he died a few hours later. Oldfield was painfully injured and his machine completely demolished.

The accident occurred after a false start. The flagman vainly attempted to signal Oldfield and Webb, who were leading, that the start was not allowed, but they did not see his flag and continued around the course at a high rate of speed.

Shortly after passing the first turn of the mile track Webb secured the lead by a narrow margin and the men were in a relatively same position when passing the three-quarter pole. In making the turn, Webb's machine skidded and raised a blinding cloud of dust that completely blinded Oldfield and half smothered him.

Not being able to see that he had completed the turn, Oldfield continued his course and crashed through the fence.

When Oldfield failed to appear after Webb had emerged from the dust cloud there was considerable excitement, but as it was announced that he was not seriously injured and shortly afterward he was driven to the clubhouse in an automobile it was not generally known that the accident had resulted fatally.

The race, after a short delay, was run, being won by Webb by a large margin. It was the most important event of the day, the prize being the Louisiana Purchase exposition trophy valued at $500.

After the races Barney Oldfield said: "This race is my last. I am through with the game, as far as racing is concerned. I may take part in exhibitions, but no more contests for me."

This is the second serious accident that Barney Oldfield has figured in. At Grosse Pointe, Detroit, a few years ago, his car left the course, killing a man. Oldfield had three of his ribs broken.

ILLICIT SALOONS WRECKED.

Wives of Prominent Business Men of Cuba, Kan., Did It.

Cuba, Kan., Aug. 23.—Four illicit saloons were wrecked by women here and much liquor destroyed. Mrs. E. O. Flites and Mrs. William McDonald, wives of prominent business men, armed with hatchets, first entered without warning the place run by Ben Hull. Without ceremony they began to smash everything in sight, and soon they had demolished bar and fixtures, and broken every bottle and opened every keg to be found. Later they were joined by 25 other women, and the entire party raided the other three places in Cuba. The stocks and fixtures at each were destroyed in prompt order. Finally the women spilled into the street a great quantity of keg beer that had been confiscated and stored at the city jail.

HOTEL KEY FOUND.

Attached Was a Card Saying, "Good-Bye World, Water Won't Tell, 832."

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 23.—A key has been found in the park near the American falls with a card attached on which was written, "Good-bye world, water won't tell, 832." The police learned that the key belonged to the Prospect house. It fitted the door of a room engaged by L. M. Halery, of Charleston, W. Va. Halery, who came here two weeks ago, mysteriously disappeared, leaving his baggage behind him. The authorities think he committed suicide.

Caused the Woman's Death.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Excitement attending the quick accumulation of wealth and its sudden loss through speculation on the open board of trade is said to have been the cause of the death of Miss Marguerite Kelly, who killed herself in Harlem a few days ago.

Vast Forests Ablaze.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 23.—Forest fires are raging in British Columbia more furiously than ever. It is estimated that $60,000,000 worth of timber is burning, a loss in royalties to the province of over $500,000. At Point Grey seven miles of fires are now burning.

Man Afflicted With Leprosy.

LaSalle, Ill., Aug. 23.—Matthew Nubaski, a furnace man employed in the Illinois Zinc Co.'s plant in Peru, was found to be suffering from pronounced leprosy by a commission consisting of all the physicians in LaSalle and some county officials.

Philippine Commerce.

Washington, Aug. 23.—During the nine months ended March last the total commerce of the Philippine islands shows an increased value of more than a million dollars according to a statement given out Sunday.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boesche's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup, so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectation easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough-racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 20c; large size 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

Said lands will be sold upon credits of six, twelve and eighteen months for equal parts of purchase money, with the privilege to the purchaser or purchasers to pay any or all of said installments of the purchase price before maturity. The purchaser or purchasers will be required to execute bond payable to the undersigned Master Commissioner with good, solvent and sufficient surety, to be approved by said Commissioner, bearing interest from date of sale until paid, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and having the force and effect of a judgment, and a lien will be retained in said bond upon the lands sold as additional security. The undersigned Master Commissioner will first offer for sale the first tract above described, and he will then offer the second tract above described, and then he will offer both of said tracts as a whole, and the highest and best bid will be accepted.

This sale is made for the purpose of reinvestment and also to raise the money necessary to satisfy a judgment in favor of the Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co. for the sum of fifteen thousand ($15,000) dollars with interest thereon from Jan. 1st, 1904 until paid, at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum, payable on the first days of January and July of each year, said debt and interest amounting on the day of sale the sum of ($15,541.55) dollars, and the costs of this action in addition amounting to $422.45 dollars, making the total amount to be raised and paid out of the proceeds of sale $15,964.00.

EMMETT M. DICKSON.

Master Commissioner B. C. C.

Purchasers will be given the privilege of sowing wheat and seeding in the fall of 1904, and will get possession by March 1st, 1905.

The above two farms are located on the Paris & Ruddle's Mills turnpike, about three miles from Paris, and therefore, convenient to churches, schools, &c. The tract of 244.73 acres has on it a substantial dwelling of five or six rooms, ice house, dairy, corn crib, mule barn, and a large tobacco barn. The tract of 323.56 acres has on it several small dwellings, large tobacco barn, pair of scales, etc. Both tracts are well watered and well fenced, and in good state of cultivation. Purchasers are invited to inspect the property. Mr. John Neal, living on the premises, will show the property and point out the division line between the two tracts. The survey and plat of the land and of the two tracts may be seen at the Circuit Clerk's office.

We Are All Democrats Together.

[From the Paris Gazette.]

The Paris Democrat of Saturday thinks that the Democratic County Committee made a great mistake, at its last meeting, (when the primary was called to be held Nov. 15) by appointing a sub-committee.

The article goes on to say, which we think is a little inconsistent, that "The members are fair and honorable men and we do charge that they will do anything unfair." This evidently is a mistake, as the whole article is at this time.

If we understand the matter correctly, the sub-committee was appointed, not to settle the matter finally as to election officers, but it was to receive from each candidate a list of not more than four names for officers in each precinct in the county—from the names so furnished the sub-committee is to select the election officers and then report said list to the whole committee for its approval.

Now, will any calm, unexcited person tell us what is wrong about this? Where is any unfairness or snap-judgment? There were thirteen members in person and two proxies out of the twenty, present, and the vote on these resolutions was unanimous. We do not know who a single member of the committee is for, for any of these offices, but we do know the committee is composed of fair and honorable men, and believe there is not a man who is a member of the Bourbon County Democratic Committee who would try and take any unfair and dishonorable advantage in any way of one Democrat over another.

We venture to say that the man who gets the largest number of votes for the office he is running for will be the nominee, and it makes no difference who the election officers are for.

We give below the resolution about which the cry has been raised:

RESOLVED, That the following Committee, W. D. McIntyre, Lee Beall and Joseph Stewart, be, and it is hereby appointed for the purpose of providing for said election as follows: they shall arrange for the arrangement and printing of the ballots, secure ballot boxes, estimate the cost of holding the election, and make an assessment on each candidate for a reasonable sum to defray the expense.

Each candidate shall pay said assessment at least fifteen days before said election, and at the time of payment, may recommend to said Committee a list of not more than four legally qualified men for election officers in each precinct in said County; from the names so furnished by the candidates, said Committee is empowered to select the election officers, namely, two judges, clerk and sheriff in each precinct, and said committee is directed to report its acts to the whole committee at a meeting to be held on Saturday, November 5, 1904, at two o'clock, p. m., standard time.

The above article expresses our sentiment in regard to this matter, and we think the Democrat's editorial was untimely and unbecoming in coming from such a source. We feel sure the committee will act fair in the appointment of election officers. The Democrat's article makes it look as if uneasiness was beginning to take root in somebody's camp. We do not know the candidates who are referred to, nor do we care to know, but why start dissensions and cry of fraud in our own ranks when the resolution in no way warrants it.

Let us have a quiet and peaceable primary, free from personalities and charges of fraud. The majority of the voters will name the standard bearers and we do not believe any man was ever robbed of his nomination in Bourbon county.

The Candidates.

The candidates for the Democratic nomination of county offices are all busy seeing the dear people in the country. The primary is set for November 15th, and every one of the candidates seem to be making a house to house canvass. Several of the races are considered by every one to be close, and several that were at one time thought to be one-sided have developed into what many think will end in very close finishes.

C. W. B. M.

The regular meeting of the C. W. B. M. will be held in the Christian Church at 3 o'clock Friday, September 2. This will be the last meeting of the Missionary year, and it is earnestly requested that every member will be present.

New fall and winter goods arriving daily at Harry Simon's.

Held Over.

William Burris, white, aged 9, and Lewis Washington, aged 11, the youthful pair that derailed a freight by placing a heavy timber in a frog of a switch at Escandida, a few days ago, were arraigned before Judge Smith Friday morning and held to the Circuit Court in the sum of $500 each.

$2.50 Oxfords at $1.15; $3.00 Oxfords at $2.50, at Harry Simon's.

Elder Carey Morgan III.

The many friends of Elder Carey Morgan, the popular pastor of the Christian Church, will regret to know that he has been quite ill for several days. Drs. Fithian & Daugherty, on Sunday, performed a slight operation on him for an abscess on one of his ribs. He is reported as doing nicely, and it is hoped will soon be able to resume his pastoral labors.

JUST received a full line of children's school shoes. HARRY SIMON.

WANTED.—To buy some good building lots, must be cheap and in good part of city. Apply at News office.

The Public Library.

The Public Library is all completed with the exceptions of putting in the steel shelving and books. Both of these have been purchased, and the Library will be opened just as soon as the shelving is received and put up, which will probably be several weeks. The new concrete pavement and graded yard adds much to the appearance of the lot.

Hemp Cutters In Demand.

Hemp cutters are in great demand in this section. They are paying $4 per acre. Yesterday Sidney G. Clay sent a wagon load of twenty-four to his farm. He has 60 acres to cut.

Dick Marsh is having his hemp cut by machine and is paying only $2 per acre. C. Alexander has 250 acres in hemp. He is the largest grower in the county.

NOTICE.—Dr. Bowen, the optician, will be at A. J. Winters & Co.'s on Sept.-8. Examination free.

Will Probably Attend.

The International Congress of Dentists now in session at St. Louis. This meeting lasts for six days and the leading dentists from all over the world will be present. Dr. M. H. Dailey, of this city, a member of the State Board of Dental Examiners, has been made referee for this part of the State. We understand the Doctor is contemplating short stay there this week.

The best line of children's school shoes can be found at Harry Simon's.

Bought Most Complete Stock.

L. Frank and son, B. A. Frank, have returned from New York, where they bought the most complete stock of dry goods that will be seen this fall and winter in Central Kentucky. Their line of furs, cloaks, ready-to-wear suits, dress goods and novelties, will be the largest and most carefully selected lines ever offered to this trade. You will soon be convinced if you will only call at this old reliable house and make careful examination of their fall and winter stock.

FOR A. E. Stiller & Sohn's handloom damask and napkins to match, call at Harry Simon's.

Announcement.

The marriage of Mr. Frank P. Lowry, of this city, and Miss Sallie K. Berry, of Fulton, Mo., is announced to take place on September 14. The ceremony will be solemnized at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Walter Berry, at Edina, Mo.

Miss Berry is the daughter of the late Joel S. Berry, of this county. She is a handsome and charming young woman, in fact, possessing all the essentials that go to make the type of real Kentucky womanhood. Mr. Lowry is one of our most successful young merchants. He stands high in the regard of every one in our community, popular, affable and courteous young bachelor, and well-known for his business integrity. We congratulate him on winning this most excellent young woman for his life partner.

Work To Begin In Two Weeks.

There has been much uneasiness of late among our merchants in regard to the repairing of Main street. The contractors had promised to begin work some time since, but nothing had been heard of them lately and it looked as if we would not probably have the new street for the coming winter. If such a thing should happen, we would have a nice time this winter in traveling the street. By an oversight, we understand, the city failed to put in the contract when this work was to begin.

Councilman O'Brien went to Indianapolis, Friday, to see the contractors in regard to the matter. He returned Saturday night, and says work is to begin in about two weeks and that the contractors say they will be through with their work before cold weather sets in.

NOTICE.—Harry Simon has accepted the agency for A. E. Stiller & Sohn's handloom damask and napkins made in Sorau, Germany.

FOUND.—On streets of Paris, a pair of nose glasses. Owner can get same by proving property.

Will of B. F. Harris.

The last will and testament of the late B. F. Harris was probated yesterday in Court.

The will makes R. M. Harris executor without bond. It gives to his son, R. M. Harris, a life interest in the home place on Pleasant street, and at his death to his other heirs-at-law.

The balance of his property is to be divided as follows: One-third to R. M. Harris, one-third to the descendants of his daughter, Hannah Hall, and one-third to descendants of his daughter, Susan Smith.

The executor is given the right to sell the home place and re-invest for his use.

The will was written in September, 1896, and witnessed by Rev. F. J. Cheek and Dr. Joseph Fithian.

ALL summer goods to be closed out at cost to make room for winter goods. HARRY SIMON.

A Licensed Embalmer.

Mr. W. O. Hinton, who is with his father, J. T. Hinton, the widely-known furniture dealer and undertaker, was examined at Louisville last week by the State Board of Examiners, which is required by a new law, and received his license as an embalmer. Mr. Hinton has had 21 years experience in embalming and undertaking. As a director of funerals he has few, if any, equals. His sympathetic nature, his ease and trained experience in handling the dead and conducting funerals, has given him a most enviable reputation in Bourbon and surrounding counties.

A FULL line of dress gingham, suitable for children's school dresses, just in, at Harry Simon's.

The Regulars vs. Ravens.

The game of ball Sunday afternoon between the Paris Regulars and Cincinnati Ravens was witnessed by a large crowd. The crowd was very enthusiastic over the fast game put up by the Paris team, their playing was equal to many of the professional teams of the country. The Cincinnati boys could not touch Cooper, who struck out his usual fifteen men. The main feature of the game was the batting of the Paris team and the almost errorless game played by them, making only two errors. The play of Watkins, of the home team, when he run from short to the left foul line and caught a fly and throwing to Third, making a double play, was worthy of any professional. The Ravens play good ball, but were simply outclassed Sunday. This is five straight games for the Regulars. Paris made fifteen hits and the Ravens five. The score resulted Paris, 10; Ravens, 0.

LOST.—On Sunday evening between the residences of Mr. Henry Spears and Mrs. Margaret McClintock, a cameo breast-pin. Finder will please leave at this office and receive reward.

Good Water For High School.

We are glad to inform the public that Health Officer Dr. Silas Evans is determined to have pure water for the children to drink at the High School if there is anything by enforcing the law in this matter. The School Board promised him two months ago to have filters put in that would insure pure water. Instead the board had the old cistern made new and simply a charcoal filter put up. The cistern is now empty. School was about to be opened and as we understand it the children were to be furnished drinking water that had only been run through charcoal.

Health Officer Evans then informed the Board that the school should not open until some arrangements had been made for pure water. He told them that the water from Bedford's Spring, near town, had been analyzed and pronounced absolutely pure. The Board, when realizing that the Health Officer meant business, at once made arrangements for the hauling of the water from the above named spring, and the children are now drinking pure spring water until the two Pasteur Nysa Filters, the best made, arrive, one for each floor having been ordered by the School Board.

An Important Capture.

Postoffice Inspector Speer made an important capture here Friday night by arresting John Fisher, a negro employed at L. & N. baggage room. Fisher was suspected and a decoy letter was used to trap him. He bit readily and fell in without any trouble. The hotels have been in the habit of sending letters to the depot to be mailed on the trains, and Fisher usually took charge of all mail and placed it in the mail cars. Numerous complaints from merchants were made about packages sent as second-class matter never reaching them. Fisher was handed two letters Friday night to mail, he threw in his mail sacks but held back the letters. Inspector Speer followed him after the train left and put him under arrest, but Fisher refused to go with him. Speer thereupon covered him with a big gun and held him until Chief of Police Hill arrived, which seemed to make the indignant chief wilt. He was searched and the marked money in one letter found on his person. He would not tell where the other letter was until forced to do so by Chief Hill, and he then pulled it out of his mouth—he had been chewing on it.

After landing him in jail his house was searched and a half bushel of plunder, consisting of jewelry, surgical implements and other valuables were found. A large bunch of opened letters were also found in his home, the stamps not being cancelled, showing they were letters from the hotels here.

A J. Winters identified several valuable pieces of jewelry. He recovered a gold watch that he had lost several months ago, by Fisher's wife bringing it in to have repaired several days ago.

Fisher has been engaged in the business for several years and will no doubt get the limit, which is five years.

THE FOOT-HILLS.

Under the cloudless blue they lie,
Golden hills in the golden sun;
Rising up to the mountains high,
Reaching down where the rivers run.
Smooth and bright as a beaten strand,
Fresh and strange as an unsaid sea,
Billowing out on either hand,
Sweet with a magical witchery.

Up to the springs of youth they lead,
Under the edge of the purple pines;
Ways untainted by toll or greed,
Paths where peace in its fullness shines;
Winds of healing above them pass,
Free and fresh in their stainless might;
Golden ripples the mountain grass,
Golden stretches the boundless light.

Oh, to be where the foot-hills rise,
Far away from the homes of men!
Oh, for an hour to lift mine eyes
Up to their glorious slopes again!
All day long my feet must fare
Over the paths by totters trod,
But oh, to kneel on that altar-stair
Lifted up by the hills of God!

The Hermit

A Story of the Wilderness

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN

CHAPTER I.
FIRST LOVE.

The camp fire had burned low; the little zone of light barely outlined the open tent, the two canoes, bottom up, under which Levi and Jean were sheltered, and the narrow opening in the forest where Martin Frisbie and his boyhood friend, Dr. Sol, had camped for the night. In front of this a placid lakelet reflected the stars, while all about was a pathless wilderness, sombre and silent. For an hour these two, who had been village schoolmates, became reminiscent as they lounged beside the fire and smoked.

"And so Angie isn't married?" queried Martin, reaching forward to poke the embers together. "That's strange. As I recall her at the close of our school days, she was a more than usually pretty girl of a quiet common-sense sort, one who would naturally become a home-maker. She still lives with Aunt Comfort, I suppose?"

"Yes," answered the doctor, "and keeps the South End school and has for ten years." Then, as if a new thought had come to him, he added: "Maybe she is waiting for you, Martin. I remember you used to be sweet on her in the old days."

Martin slowly blew a smoke ring aloft, for he, like every youth, had passed safely through the brief delirium of first love, which the bright eyes and red lips of Angie Curtis had occasioned.

"Yes, I must admit I was," he responded, "and do you know, doctor, now that you mention my callow spell, I wish I could go back to it and be just as big and happy a fool as I was then."

The doctor laughed. "Better come up and tell her so," he responded, glancing at Martin's upraised face; "for all you know, she might be glad to listen, and as for being a fool over again—well, from what I hear, you can afford it now."

And Martin could, for he had made good use of the years since he and Dr. Sol were boys together, and had reached the goal of moderate wealth while yet in the prime of manhood.

"I'd like to see Angie," Martin added musingly after a long pause, "and have a good visit and laugh over our youthful silliness; but maybe she wouldn't speak to me now, if we met."

"Oh, pshaw, that's nonsense," returned the doctor, promptly, "and you know it. Angie isn't so silly as to retain a grudge against a boy admirer so long. Why do you imagine she would? Does your conscience smite you?"

"No-o-o," came the drawing answer, "and yet I think I didn't treat her just right, after leaving Greenvale. I was too busy making money."

And that night when the chat had come to an end, and Martin had crept into the tent and lay listening to the crackle of the dying fire, once more he lived over those fond and foolish days of his youth.

And how clear and distinctly they all came back, now that the pages began to turn! First the school days, when Angie, in her little checkedingham pinafore, had chosen him as her rescuer in a game of "Stand in the Well," then the first spelling school and the walk home with her in the early autumn, when the Mizzys looked like a stream of rippling silver, and the moon cast mottled shadows along the maple-shaded lane which they followed. And what a delight it was to feel her small, soft hand on his jacket sleeve, and how scared he was when Aunt Comfort's was reached, and he felt impelled to kiss Angie. Then the next winter, and that never-to-be-forgotten sleigh-ride to Riverton, and the home-coming when the bells jingled so merrily, and the sleigh runners creaked in the frosty snow when the horse walked, and how his arm nearly froze holding the robe around Angie! All the long winter evenings in Aunt Comfort's "best room," with its haircloth furniture, open fire, and shiny brass fire-dogs, came back, with the popping of corn, the tin pan of seek-no-further apples, and bowl of cracked walnuts as side features of minor interest. There were other and equally charming occasions—moonlit evenings on Aunt Comfort's porch when the lilacs were in bloom and the fireflies twinkled over the meadow, long walks to a bridge across the Mizzzy, where sweet flag grew, with many stolen kisses fragrant with flagroot, gathered as well, and dozens of other and equally delightful hours, with Angie as the one sole and supreme inspiration. But beyond these boyhood delights, and woven into his feelings like fine tendrils, was the memory of a dozen or more old-time Sabbath-school melodies she used to sing to her own accompaniment played upon a little droning melodeon. They were all from a collection called "Fresh Laurels," and that, with two more, one labelled "Songs of Zion" and the other "The Glee Club," composed her musical library. The first was her favorite, and the songs she usually entertained him with were "Give, Said the Little Stream," "The Golden Rule," "All the Way," and "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

For two years he had lived in a new and glorified world, building air castles with her and for her, as young Romeos ever have and ever will, and then came a sweet yet painful parting, profligate of fond promise, but alas, like most, to fade into thin air.

For one year more they had exchanged tender missives, first weekly, then monthly, then irregularly; and then ceasing entirely, as Martin, ambitious and hard-working in his new life, neglected them, and so the dream ended.

Five years later he returned to spend a Thanksgiving with his mother, and, though he met Angie at church and received a bow and a smile, he impolitely neglected to call. And then came the closing of his home, when his mother left the village to live with his only sister, now married and dwelling in Riverton, and Angie and Greenvale became but milestones on the highway of memory.

There is latent in every man's heart a long-cherished belief that she who was his early sweetheart must ever feel somewhat of the same tender interest in him. She may have married—become a mother, possibly a grandmother; he may have neglected her utterly and for long years, and yet, in his conceit, it matters not; she must and certainly does retain his face in her memory, and deep down in her heart, a little of the old first love.

Martin was no different from other men. He had lived the sweet illusion with Angie as its star; then the great city—the fight for a livelihood, then a competence, and all the selfish cynicism instilled by contact with grasping greed, had leveled the beautiful air-castles and left Angie and all those fond and foolish ways mere incidents of the long ago.

Beyond that, he had escaped any more mature and dangerous entanglement, had grown sceptical of all things, and was a free-hearted, all-around good fellow, yet conscious of success; and the only soft spot in his nature was a love for wood life. He had met Dr. "Sol" Finch, an old schoolmate, by chance in the city, and under the spur of this sportsman's instinct and desire to share his keen pleasures, had invited his boyhood friend to join in them.

And now the doctor was fast asleep, while Martin, lying on a bed of fir twigs, with the dying fire faintly glowing in front of the tent, the low ripple of the near-by lake murmuring along the sandy shore, was once more listening to the old songs of Sabbath-school days, sung by his boyhood sweetheart, and living over those dreams of young love.

For a long hour, so keen was the spell, he wandered about that distant village, in fancy, and dwelt among by-gones, and then suddenly he became conscious that some creature was stealthily crawling through the thick undergrowth back of the tent. Only the faintest sounds betrayed its presence—the swish of a spruce bough brushed aside and returning to place, the breaking of a dead twig, the rustle of a dry leaf—and yet, so perfect was the utter silence of that June night, each trivial sound reached him.

For a moment he listened, breathless, to this approaching prowler, then rose to a sitting posture, reached for his rifle, and, softly drawing the tent flap aside, peeped out. Whatever the creature was, its acute hearing had received warning, for now no sound issued from the surrounding thicket. For a seemingly long five minutes Martin peered out, glancing from side to side of the little opening and to the canoes, beneath which lay the guides, and listened. He could hear their measured breathing, and faint ripple along the lake shore near by, and that was all. Then once more the creeping, crawling, stealthy movement in the tangle just back of the tent began again, this time slowly receding until it ceased.

A danger we can measure does not appal us, but the invisible menace of some animal creeping close to one's tent at night in the wilderness is another matter. It may be a harmless porcupine, but we are sure to imagine it to be a bear, panther, or wildcat—at least Martin did—but after a half-hour more of listening without result, except to get chilled, he gave it up and crept under his blanket again.

"I'd better not tell the doctor," he said to himself, and then fell asleep.

CHAPTER II.

A CURIOUS FOOTPRINT.

The morning concert of song birds, always heard in the wilderness in May and June, was in full force when Martin crept out of the tent next morning. The sun was just peeping through the spruce tops, a film of thin gray fog covered the placid lake, and Levi had just started a fire. Then came the usual wash in clear, cold water, the gathering around the bright fire to watch the guides cooking, the keen appetite for the simple breakfast of fried trout, ham, eggs, and coffee, eaten while sitting cross-legged on a moss-covered log, the packing of their belongings, the launching and loading of canoes, and so the day began.

"We have an easy day ahead of us," observed Martin, when they were ready to start, "a good twenty miles up the Moosehorn, which enters this lake close by," with no quick water or carries. We can reach the North Branch in ample time to make camp to-night and catch some trout there for supper." It was an attractive programme, almost unvarying for all such days in the wilderness, and so pleasant that the impress of the previous night's caller, creeping close to the tent, had almost vanished from Martin's mind. But it was soon recalled in an unexpected way, for Levi, always last to leave each camping spot, was about to enter his canoe and push off, when he paused, and stepping to one side of the bit of beach, stooped over, looking at something.

"What is it?" queried Martin, from the canoe.

"I dunno; you better come and see," answered Levi.

Martin stepped out of the canoe and to where his guide stood, to be as much astonished, for there in the hard damp sand, close to the bank, was a queer footprint. It was no longer than one made by a human foot, with the deeply indented claw marks of a panther. Only these showed distinctly, for the heel mark was scarcely visible. It looked as if the creature making it had come out of the water and up on to the harder bank, where no track would show.

"Well," said Martin again, after a long examination, "what is it?"

"It's more'n I can tell," replied Levi, shaking his head and measuring the claw prints with a twig. "If he's a panther, he had longer claws'n I ever saw, 'n I never knew one to have a heel mark like that, or step in the water if he could help it. It beats me."

"What have you found," called the doctor from his canoe out in the lake.

"Oh, nothing," answered Martin; "only the track of an otter," and he stepped into his canoe again and they paddled away.

Then he told Levi about the night visitor, creeping about the tent.

"I do not think it wise to tell the doctor or Jean," he said in conclusion, "or speak of this queer track. It's the doctor's first trip into the woods, and such things will alarm him unduly and spoil his enjoyment." And so the singular footprint and its possible connection with the creature who had crept up to their tent at midnight was left behind.

Usually two sportsmen, in canoeing upstream especially, will keep along together, but somehow that day it happened that Dr. Sol and Jean were first to reach the junction of the North Branch with the broad and slow-running Moosehorn, and the lowering sun had left its valley in shadow ere Jean pushed his canoe ashore and the doctor stepped out. It was as Martin had stated, a good camping spot, for the entrance to an old tote-road furnished a clear space, an endless procession of foam flecks on the Branch emerged from the shadow of its overhang and wheeled into the broader stream, while the music of a little cascade just back in the woods suggested trout.

"You may jist so well go fish," said Jean, turning to the canoe and taking from it a small axe, "zar be one ver nice hole up ze stream few rod," and he pointed where a bush-choked opening showed that a tote-road had once been cut alongside the Branch.

Dr. Sol eyed it suspiciously. "No bears or panthers up there, Jean?" he queried.

"If you see him, he see you fust, an' you no see him," came the paradoxical answer, as Jean began cutting away the undergrowth with his hunting-knife, preparatory to the erection of a tent.

Dr. Sol reached for his rod, joined it, still glancing furtively into the sombre wilderness, and then down the stream again. "I wish Frisbie would keep up," he said, half to himself. "I want trout for supper, but I'm not just anxious to go into the woods alone after them."

But the floating foam flecks, the call of the running waters, and the love of sport conquered the forbidding forest, and with one more glance down the Moosehorn he started up the almost invisible path.

From the sound, the little cascade he could hear must be scarce ten rods in, but as he followed the old log road, now close beside the stream, and then bending away, while he pushed aside the undergrowth taller than himself, it seemed ever a little beyond. Just as his courage had nearly ebbed, the faint path turned down beside the stream once more, and here its current, merely fretted by a hidden ledge, was making the music that had lured him in. Like a boy now, in his eagerness, he adjusted his tackle, and with a short cast lightly threw the gaudy flies into the pool below, and let them float down. In an instant came a leap and splash as a pound trout took the tempting morsel, and the sport began. One after another the little doctor reeled in, oblivious now to bears, panthers, or the solemn stillness of the wilderness, and happy as only a true sportsman can be.

A dozen had been tossed in rapid succession behind a rotting stump, when, forgetting the trees back of him, he hooked one limb hard and fast. To climb such a spruce, with branches so thick a squirrel only could do it, was impossible, and with a muttered imprecation, the doctor pulled on his line until the delicate leader broke, and then sat down to repair damages. He had just done so and arisen, when the faint sound of a breaking twig caught his attention. With a quick glance across the stream, where a rocky and bush-hid bank faced him, he saw, in the darkening twilight, just above a brown, moss-covered boulder, a hideous, hairy, human face!

Only one instant he saw it, the next it had vanished.

For a moment Dr. Sol, never a courageous man, stood still, while it seemed that icy water was leaping through every vein; the next instant he turned and ran down the bush-choked path as if pursued by demons. Each moment, as he dove under bending boughs or leaped over fallen trees, he felt that a hairy human monster was just about to seize him.

When the camp-fire was reached, Martin had arrived and was cutting boughs with a hunting-knife, while Jean and Levi were just entering the tent. A fire had been started, a blackened pail had been hung from a stick over the flame, and preparations for a night in the woods were well under way. Into this little group leaped the terrified doctor, breathless, with face scratched and bleeding.

"Pack up, quick!" he exclaimed in a husky voice; "we've got to get out of here at once! There's a wild man back up in the woods, and I wouldn't stay here for a million dollars!"

Martin and Levi exchanged quick glances, and a halt came in the camping work. For a moment the two looked at one another, and then, as if recalling that curious footprint they had seen 20 miles away, they glanced furtively up the bush-choked log road. One instant only Martin hesitated, and then he recovered himself.

"Doctor," he said, "I expected you would get well scared the first time you went into the woods alone, and I see you have. What you saw, most likely, was a blackened stump half hid in the bushes, or possibly it might have been a bear. If so, he is a mile away by now, more scared than you are. Here, take a drink, brace up, and help us to make camp. It's almost dark."

But Dr. Sol was obdurate. "I tell you, Martin Frisbie," he replied sternly, heeding not the proffered flask, "I wouldn't stay here a night for love nor money. We are watched, and by the most savage-looking creature I ever set eyes on." Then, with many additions, as might be expected, he told of his fright.

Martin and Levi exchanged knowing looks once more, but made no comment until the tale was told, and then Martin spoke.

EVADING THE QUESTION.

One Woman's Clever Way of Telling Inquisitive Persons How Old She Is.

"I think it is a foolish fashion that so many women indulge, that of telling their age wrongly," said the woman with the prematurely gray hair, relates London Tit-Bits. "I can honestly say that I never practice it myself."

"No?" said her friend, with many meanings in the monosyllable.

"Well," said the first speaker, with a smile—she was a woman with a sense of humor—"the fact is, I don't have to. I have a way of making myself out younger than I am, if I wish to, without telling a fib at all."

"Really?" inquired the other, curiously; "in what way?"

"I put the burden of the fib all upon the questioner. You see, when one of my dear women friends—it is always women who are curious on this point—asks me how old I am I say: 'Oh, I'm a year or two older than you, you know, my dear—at least a year older. Let me see, now, how old are you?' And then she always knocks me off my age than I should ever have the nerve to do myself!"

Missed Canvas Back Clam.

Traveling on the continent of Europe with a party of young Americans, I was witness of their dismay at being assailed from time to time by friendly English fellow travelers with such questions as these:

"Is it not very lonely in America? Are there any singing birds there? Any wild flowers? Any bishops? Are there booths in the streets of New York? Do people read English books there? Have they heard of Ruskin; and how?"

These were from the rank and file of questioners, while a very cultivated clergyman lost caste, somewhat with our young people by asking confidently, "Are Harvard and Yale both in Boston?"

This question, which seemed to them as hopelessly benighted as the remark of a lady just returned from the wonders of the new world, who had been impressed, like all visitors, with the novelties offered in the way of food at the Baltimore dinner tables, but still sighed with regret at having been obliged to come away without eating a "canvas-backed clam."—Atlantic.

The New Hired Man.

"I can't see that man you've hired anywhere," said Mrs. Riggs, irritably. "Here you are laid up with rheumatism, and I need some more wood split up for kindling. There! I see a man way over in the cranberry meadow. I believe that's him."

"Is the man standing or sitting?" asked Mr. Riggs.

"Standing," said his wife. "Then the chances are it is some other man," said the invalid, "unless he's found a wasp's nest."—Youth's Companion.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger.

J. B. Corton, farmer and lumberman, of Deppe, N. C., says: "I suffered for years with my back. It was so bad that I could not walk any distance nor even ride in easy buggy. I do not believe I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe. This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me and now I am never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago. I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors and they have also found good results. If you can sift anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to anyone suffering from kidney trouble, you are at liberty to do so."

Hypnotizing Rabbits.
An American physician, who has been accustomed to experiment with rabbits, generally found that chloroform killed them before he had a chance to operate. Disgusted at the wastefulness of this method, he tried hypnotism on one rabbit that he had left and found, to his surprise, that with a few passes of the hands he could easily hypnotize the little creature so perfectly that it lost all capacity for movement or sensation. If rabbits can be hypnotized, it will seem perhaps a little less incredible that some diseases of horses may yield to mental treatment. —London Tit-Bits.

The Durian.
The durian is a fruit of malodorous fame which is found in the islands of the East Indies. It is of a round or oval shape, green and prickly on the outside, but having a soft, cream-colored pulp of a delightful taste. Were it not for the disagreeable odor it would probably become one of the most popular fruits, but so strong and lasting is the nauseating smell that should one take even a taste of durian he would be unable to mingle with society for some time after.

Japanese Rocket.
A manufacturer of pyrotechnics in Nagasaki, Japan, makes a rocket, from which, when it explodes in the air, there flies away a large bird which resembles a homing bird in its movements. It is said that the secret of this wonderful production has been in the possession of the eldest child of the family for more than 400 years.

Evidently Needed Teaching.
The vacation schools and the warm weather brought an obnoxiously odorous youngster to teacher, who sent her home to be washed.
On the returning, less aromatic, said the youngster to teacher:
"Me mudder wants to know if I come her to git taught or git smelled." —N. Y. Sun.

At the Zoo.
The elephant had just returned from a little jaunt with the circus.
"You're back early," said the giraffe, rubbing. "Didn't you like the trip?"
"Well enough; but I got tired of living in my trunk."
Only the hyena laughed. —Cincinnati Tribune.

Where the Conflict Rages.
"You weren't always such an early riser."
"No," answered Mr. Bliggins. "But out where I live now you've got to get up early to wake other people with the lawn mower instead of being disturbed yourself." —Washington Star.

LEARNING THINGS

We Are All in the Apprentice Class.

When a simple change of diet brings back health and happiness the story is briefly told. A lady of Springfield, Ill., says: "After being afflicted for years with nervousness and heart trouble, I received a shock four years ago that left me in such a condition that my life was despaired of. I could get no relief from doctors nor from the numbing heart and nerve medicines I tried because I didn't know that the coffee was daily putting me back more than the Drs. could put me ahead."
"Finally at the request of a friend I left off coffee and began the use of Postum and against my convictions I gradually improved in health until for the past 6 or 8 months I have been entirely free from nervousness and those terrible sinking, weakening spells of heart trouble."
"My troubles all came from the use of coffee which I drank from childhood and yet they disappeared when I quit coffee and took up the use of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Many people marvel at the effects of leaving off coffee and drinking Postum but there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense.
Coffee is a destroyer—Postum is a builder. That's the reason.
Look in each pkg. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

IT WAS SO UNUSUAL.

"Mrs. Higbee is worried nearly to death."
"What over?"
"She can't find out anything about the family that moved next door to her."
—St. Louis Republic.

Boyhood Memories.
Boys know good mothers by the score. But more than all they prize those mothers who are noted for the goodness of their pies. —Catholic Standard.

The Young Infidel.
As little Jim was going to bed, crawling under the coverlet, his mother asked him if he had not forgotten something.
"Nope," he answered.
"Didn't you forget to say your prayers?"
"Nope. I didn't say 'em last night, an' nothin' didn't happen to me. I ain't a-goin' to say 'em to-night, neither; an' if nothin' don't happen to me to-night, I ain't never goin' to say 'em." But he did; something happened. —Boston Budget.

Far Sighted.
"Know young Fillers, the dentist? He's going to elope with Miss Travers."
"The deuce! When?"
"In a few weeks."
"A few weeks? Why doesn't he take her now?"
"Well, you see, he is doing a lot of expensive work on her teeth, and he wants to collect the bill from her father first." —Kansas City Journal.

An English Expression.
Patience—What idiotic expressions the English have!
Patrice—What do you mean?
"Why, that Britisher who danced with you last night said he had a 'ripping' time!"
"Well, if you had seen the condition of my dress when he got through, I guess you would have appreciated his remark." —Yonkers Statesman.

The Family Name.
Seven-year-old Marjorie is very fond of Indian stories at bedtime. The story of Hiawatha and Minnehaha is especially attractive.
"I cannot remember the name of Minnehaha's father," said her aunt the other evening.
"Why," said Marjorie, "it was Mr. Ha-Ha, of course." —Little Chronicle.

Taking No Chances.
Edith's over 20, but she keeps her age well hid; she put the family Bible in the attic, so she did. —Cleveland Leader.

EASY TO LEAVE.

She—Just back from Philadelphia, eh? What do you think is the town's greatest feature?
He—Trains leave there every ten minutes. —Chicago Chronicle.

Repeating History.
"What's all that noise about in there, children?"
"Why, sister and me is playing Adam and Eve, mamma."
"Well, can't you play more quietly?"
"No, mamma; we've got to the part where we have trouble over who shall have the apple." —Yonkers Statesman.

Groundless Fear.
Cholly—I did think of going in for politics, but I was afraid I wouldn't know just how to treat my infernals, don't you know.
Pepprey—Your infernals? O! you wouldn't be likely to meet any of them. —Philadelphia Press.

Result of Folly.
Wife (after midnight)—I'm sorry to see you come home in such a state as this, Charles.
Husband—I knew you'd be sorry, Carrie, and that's why I told you not to sit up. —Boston Transcript.

A Journalistic Jewel.

Managing Editor (to proprietor)—Flyer, our new man, ought to have a permanent position. He's the best reporter we have.

Proprietor—How's that? I thought he was a regular stink.
Managing Editor—Stink? Why, he's a genius! He found the broken rail that caused that accident on the railway, and sat on a stone eight hours waiting for the accident to occur, so he could get the report in to-night's paper. —Tit-Bits.

Church and Sport.
Miss McCall—You weren't at church this morning.
Miss Swellman—No, it was so awfully rainy.
Miss McCall—Yes, but it was an improvement upon yesterday. Wasn't that an awful storm we had yesterday afternoon?
Miss Swellman—Yes, and I went out and played golf in it. It was really quite exhilarating and novel. —Philadelphia Press.

Poetry Vs. Prose.
"So," said the stern parent, "you want to marry my daughter, eh?"
"Ah, yes!" sighed the romantic young man. "I would gladly lie down and die for her."
"I'm afraid you won't do," replied the practical father. "What I want is a son-in-law who is willing to get up and hustle for her." —Chicago Daily News.

An Unfortunate.
"Tis now the luckless candidate his sorrow doth appreciate
And for less fame is wishing
He has to wait from morn till late
On letters and affairs of state
Instead of going fishing."
—Washington Star.

AN AUTOMOBILE DIALOGUE.

He—Darling, we are now one.
She—Yes, Jack. And it's such a pleasure to think when I spend any money I am doing it for you, too. —N. Y. Herald.

She Handled Him Vigorously.
A bold bad rake reached out his arm and strove a kiss to take.
But Sue, who worked upon the farm, Knew how to use a rake. —Philadelphia Press.

A Pair of Them.
Wife—I have about made up my mind, John, that when I married you I married a fool.
Husband—That reminds me of a remark you made just before we were married. You remember that you said it would be hard to find two people more alike than you and I? —Buffalo Commercial.

The Wife's Privilege.
Josser—I wonder why it is that a woman, no matter how much she may slang him herself, will never allow anyone else to abuse her husband.
Bouncer—Selfishness, my boy; she enjoys it so much herself that she won't let anyone else share the luxury with her. —Ally Sloper.

Modesty.
"Zeb," said the colored man's employer, "I'm afraid you are getting a little lazy."
"No, suh," was the earnest reply. "I isn't lazy. I kin do as much work as any two o' dese other men, but I's tryin' to keep 'um showin' off." —Washington Star.

The One Drawback.
"Your husband knows a great deal about horses, doesn't he?" said the visitor.
"Yes," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "but the trouble is that the horses that Charley knows about never win any races." —Washington Star.

Used to It.
Tommy was visiting a neighbor's. At dinner the hostess apologized to him because the table linen was soiled at his plate.
"Oh, that's nothing," he assured her, promptly. "Ours is worse'n that at home." —Brooklyn Life.

Matrimonial Joys.
Wife—I met Mr. Meeker this morning. You remember he was your rival for my hand.
Husband—Yes; I hate that man.
Wife—But you shouldn't hate him just because he used to admire me.
Husband—Oh, that isn't the reason. I hate him because he didn't marry you. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

The One Essential.
The Fiancee—Now, don't let us quarrel.
The Fiancee—Quarrel? Why, my dear, if I could have my way, we'd never quarrel. —Puck.

VALUE OF THE RAILROADS.

Interstate Commerce Commission Estimates American Capital Invested in Them at $12,000,000,000.

Railway statistics for the year ended June 30, 1903, have been announced by the interstate commerce commission. They show that the par value of the railway capital then outstanding was $12,599,990,258, which represents a capitalization of $63,186 a mile. The number of passengers carried was 694,881,535, an increase of 45,013,030 over the previous year; freight carried, 1,304,394,323 tons, an increase of 104,078,536 tons.

The gross earnings from the operation of the total of 205,313 miles of railway line, which is the aggregate single-track mileage, were $1,900,846,907, an increase of $174,466,640; operating expenses, $1,257,538,852, an increase of $174,466,640; operating expenses, $1,257,538,852, an increase of $141,290,105; net earnings, $643,308,055, an increase of $33,176,535; income from other sources than operation, $205,687,480; net income, available for dividends or surplus, $296,376,045.

Total casualties, 86,393, of which 9,840 represented the number of persons killed and 76,553 those injured. Aggregate number of locomotives in service, 43,871, increase 2,646; cars in service, 1,753,389, an increase of over 113,000 during the year.

CZAR PLANS NEW NAVY.

Big Battleships to Be Abandoned and Smaller But Heavily Armored Vessels to Be Adopted.

News from St. Petersburg states that the technical department of the ministry of the navy is working night and day on details of the plans for the new Russian navy.

When the czar's naval programme becomes known, it is declared, it will astonish the world, as it far surpasses any that has been projected since the days of Peter the Great.

It has been practically settled to act upon the suggestions of the late Admiral Makaroff and altogether abandon heavy battleships of the Petropavlovsk type, of which three vessels in all were built in the government yards, with an average speed of 16 knots.

Of these three the Petropavlovsk is already at the bottom of the sea, while the Poltava and the Sevastopol are reported to be crippled in the harbor of Port Arthur.

The new battleships will be somewhat smaller, but will have a minimum speed of 18 knots and very heavy armament, including four 12-inch guns and 12 eight-inch quick-firing guns. Uniformity of type, which has proved to be of such great value to the Japanese fleet, will be maintained as far as possible.

CAN DETECT FALSE RUBY.

French Lapidary Discovers Method of Telling Imitation from the Genuine Stone.

Michel Pinier, a well-known French lapidary, has at last discovered a method to detect a false ruby, a thing that has puzzled all experts in precious stones for many years. A lot of sham rubies was brought to Paris some months ago through an agency in Switzerland, and then were sold to some of the best Paris jewelers.

Pinier discovered that the experts had all been swindled. He says a false ruby invariably has a soft tinge of color that verges on the yellow, while in a genuine ruby these characteristics are never present. He says, too, that the false ruby is formed by spherical bubbles, while in a true ruby these bubbles are rare and never symmetrical.

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE.

Hyomei, the Guaranteed Catarrh Cure, Prescribed by Physicians.

No one should confound Hyomei with patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as far superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians.

Is it not foolish to try and cure catarrh by swallowing tablets or liquids? The only natural way to cure this disease and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei.

This treatment has been so successful, curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by Clarke & Co. under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomei. If it does not possess unusual powers to cure, it could not be sold upon this plan.

Better Than Gold.

I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes R. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me untill I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the Druggist.

The Big Circus.

In calling attention to the large additions made to its united menageries, offering such special object instruction by means of nature's huge, ferocious and varied living lessons, at an enormous outlay and cost of transportation, the management of the Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' great aggregation urges the public, possibly impelled by past experience with some ungrateful unscrupulous shows, not to pass them unobserved and hurriedly by, that they may possibly secure and sit idly upon a seat in the hippodrome pavilion at least an hour before the circus performance begins. "Inasmuch," adds the management, "as we are to appear before you at Paris on Thursday, September 22, the policy pursued by some other managers—and of which some of you may have been made victims—compels us to criticize their most unfair and mean methods by contrast, in assuring you that every purchaser of a fifty-cent ticket to our exhibition will be provided with just as eligible a seat, from which he can just as unobstructedly see and enjoy the whole performance, as any amount of money could possibly secure. His fifty cents with us covers everything that seventy five cents or a dollar could, so far as absolute impartiality of location is involved. We do not reserve the sides of our canvas to the extent of deliberately forcing people either to pay an additional fifty cents, or to the far ends of the arena. Our reserved seats occupy less than three-tenths of our seating capacity and are located on one side of the canvas only. A large portion of that side and the whole of the other side is always open to all fifty-cent comers. If you have ever patronized us, you know this to be a fact, and if you have not you will find it so. Therefore, don't cheat yourselves and your little ones out of the profit and pleasure of inspecting the rarest wild beast exhibition that has ever visited you and for which ample time is allowed, simply because the grossly avaricious and disconcerting treatment you may have elsewhere experienced has made you precipitately apprehensive. TAKE YOUR TIME. We will give you a seat, and a good one, too, afterwards. Our seating capacity is so enormous, and has to be, that it is very rarely tested to its full capacity."

THEATRICAL NEWS.

SURPASSES EVERYTHING. "A Chinese Honeymoon" surpasses everything of its kind ever produced. In London it is conservatively estimated that more than one million theatre goers have enjoyed the music and fun at that play, and at the Casino more than half a million New Yorkers have paid to see the performance since last May. It's the daintiest, brightest and most amusing musical comedy that has ever visited here.

Fine Bourbon County STOCK FARM FOR SALE.

As Administrator of G. G. White, deceased, and agent for his heirs, I will, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., on Monday, September 5th, 1904, offer at public sale, in front of the Court-House, in Paris, Ky., the fine Bourbon County farm known as the Gilt Edge Stock Farm, the property of the late G. G. White, situated on the Paris & North Middletown Turnpike, near the City limits of Paris, and containing 547 1/2 acres of land.

This is a No. 1 Bourbon County farm. It is all under cultivation except about 150 acres of virgin soil, which is heavily set in bluegrass, making splendid grazing and is unexcelled for tobacco. Plenty of stock water in dryest season. Has benefit of creek boundary, but no creek included in survey. No part of farm overflows. Creek line furnishes unfailing stock water and saves fencing.

The farm residence is one of the best in Bourbon County, being a large 2 1/2 story brick house, colonial in style, with front veranda supported by massive columns which rise to the eaves of the house. Rooms and halls spacious and well lighted Cellars, large, light and dry. Interior finish largely in hardwood.

Two first class cisterns at residence, and all necessary outhouses.

Splendid stock barn with large number of box stalls, and good training track. Paddocks with good stallion stables adjoining barn, and an inexhaustible artesian well at the barn door. Everything in fact for a first-class stock farm.

ALSO; A GOOD TWO-STORY FRAME RESIDENCE

The Paris Distillery Company has for years past paid $300.00 per year for privilege of pumping water from Stoner Creek, all of $300.00 per year for depositing of fall from cattle pens in the natural basin near the Distillery. The purchaser can probably continue these privileges—either or both—indefinitely, adding $600.00 to annual income from the farm.

This farm is well suited for the large handling of cattle because of proximity of distillery.

I will first offer the farm in two parts and then as a whole, reserving the right to accept or reject any bid.

Division No. 1 contains 271.93 acres, including the brick residence, stock barn, track, and all adjacent improvements, and fronts on the North Middletown pike and extends back to Stoner Creek and is bounded on one side by G. W. Wyatt, and on the other side by Division No. 2. This tract contains the natural basins in which the distillery deposits offal from cattle pens, paying $300.00 annually for the privilege.

Division No. 2 contains 276.00 acres, bounded by the Distillery property on the North, by the Maysville railroad and Stoner Creek on the West, by Stoner Creek on the South, and by Division No. 1 and Stoner Creek on the East. The frame residence is on this tract, and the Distillery Company pays $300.00 per annum for the privilege of pumping water over this tract from Stoner Creek without injury to the land.

The surveyor's field notes and plat of entire farm and of the above two Divisions may be seen at the Citizens Bank in Paris, Ky.

In event of the farm selling in the above two divisions the right to use the passway from Division No. 2 over the land of Mrs. Frank Fithian out to the Maysville pike, opposite the G. G. White Distillery, in East Paris, will be included in conveyance of Division No. 2.

Purchaser has privilege of seeding the coming fall, and full possession given March 1, 1905.

TERMS.—One third cash on March 1, 1905, when deed is made; one-third March 1, 1906; one-third March 1, 1907—deferred payments to bear 6 per cent. interest from March 1, 1905.

The purchaser will not be required to give security for the deferred payments but will be required to give security for the first payment due March 1, 1905, and his notes without surety for the deferred payments, to secure which a lien will be reserved in the deed. Purchaser may pay more than one-third of the purchase money if preferred.

What MITCHELL Says

Lots of good people have quit making Ice Cream. They just send to me and get better than they can make.

I have been furnishing quite a number of people with Orange Ice for receptions. They have all been pleased.

Some buy my Peach Ice Cream, and I claim it is the best ever sold in Paris.

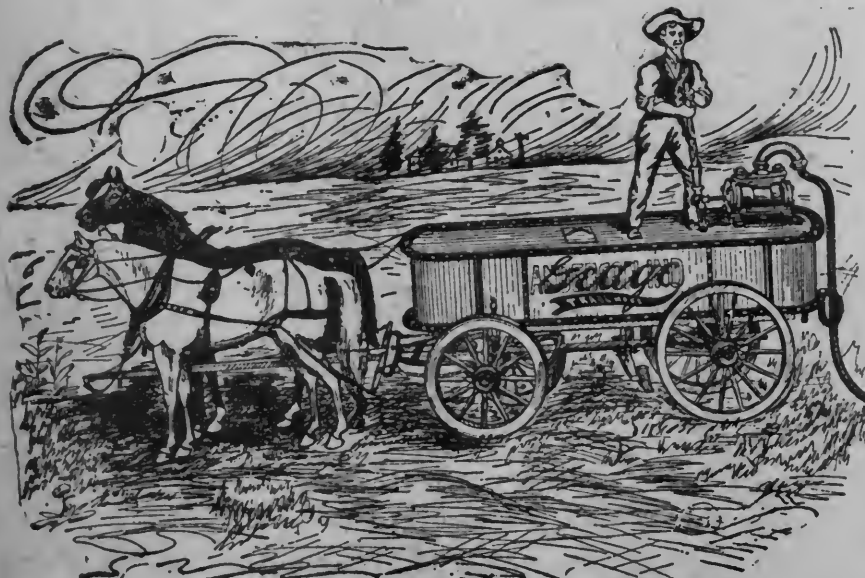

All the Soda drinks I make are strictly fine and you will do well to call at my store when you are dry.

I am the whole thing when it comes to fine confections. The girls all say so.

Yours truly,
C. B. MITCHELL.

Escaped An Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Haggin, of Melbourne, Fla., writes "My doctor told me I had consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Oberdorfer, the Druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.
